

Dear FCC,

Our family has been so happy with the telephone privacy list that we are. We have time to eat dinner without having to answer the phone to a telemarketer or business that doesn't take no for an answer and calls back the next day at the same time. We don't have to feel rude when the people don't listen when you say stop calling. If this goes through it feels like a breach in our privacy. These calls are unwanted. Why would these companies insist on calling people who don't want them too. It seems like a waste of their time because if this does go through I know for a fact I won't answer their calls. Please keep this from going through. It would be horrible to have to go through the calls all day by banks and business that don't get the point. Say no to the weakening of the telephone privacy act! PLEASE! Thanks for listening Nikki
